

GENGHIS KHAN - REVIEWS

“Rob Gee finds art and poetry from some pretty amazing places. His introduction caught the attention of the wonderfully receptive Saturday night crowd and that attention and energy never waned... guaranteed fun time... fantastic connection with the audience... a show that Lenny Bruce would have admired... a breath of fresh air... the most hilarious hour of the Fringe!”

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

“A born storyteller... outrageous and hilarious... had his audience rolling in the aisles... my abdominal muscles deserve an apology... by far the best bang for your buck!”

Victoria Times Colonist

“Dr. Seuss for adults... crafts his words with terrifying sharpness... a gift for seeing humour in tragedy... unmissable!”

Uptown Magazine, Winnipeg

“Laugh-out-loud verbal diarrhoea... the type of guy that anyone with an eye for the bizarre would want at their dinner party.”

Saskatoon StarPhoenix

“Hilarious... a funny twist or phrase never far away.”

UMFM Radio, Winnipeg

“Hilariously obscene... genial and engaging... grand bits of storytelling. Fine stuff.”

Monday Magazine, Victoria

“An amiable, very funny guy with an infectious enthusiasm that goes beyond mere theatrics... as good as the Fringe can get!”

Plank Magazine, Victoria

“Like watching a sixty minute comedic guitar solo... you'll be chuckling from start to finish!”

Winnipeg Sun

“Painfully intimate... painfully funny... although he’s promoted as offering a highly inappropriate celebration of social skills, Rob Gee is much more than that. Tender, observant, humane are more apt descriptions.”

Victoria News

“Unfailingly entertaining... a way with words that really should not be missed.”

Edmonton Journal

“A solid sixty minutes of astonishing tongue-morphing, packing rap chaos!”

See Magazine, Edmonton

“One-man word-carnival... a mesmerizing monologist in any format... as thrilling as any high-wire act.”

Orlando Weekly

“A celebration of words and the tiny details of life in the best tradition.”

Winnipeg Free Press
